Creating PDF Files is a very efficient way to share documents and files. Whether you want to print a copy or forward an e-mail with attached document, this application can help. Create PDF Files Description: In Windows every disk can be mapped to various locations. For example the default settings generally have the Windows system files at their default location (C: Drive by default), the Documents and Settings folder is mapped to another drive letter (F: Drive for example), and the Users folder is mapped to another drive letter (for example, G: Drive). However, sometimes you may find yourself in a situation where you need to mount a network drive manually. In order to do that, you must first map the network drive. For an external network drive, the process is not as difficult because you can map a network drive to a folder by creating a symbolic link. However, creating symbolic link for an internal network drive is not as easy. In order to do so you would need a special software which can do this. Moreover, now Windows users can use their Windows Mobile phone to print documents as well. Microsoft came up with a special software called "Print to Phone". This special printing software allows the user to print documents from their Windows Phone as well. There are many benefits one can get by using the Print to Phone. Using a Windows phone can be an interesting trend. I think its very useful that we can read news and view pictures easily, but what about saving photos, and transferring other data? PC users can use the Print to Phone to transfer and print from their windows phone. However there are some issues one may encounter, like the controls cannot be specified through a menu or icon. This would make transferring and printing very tedious for the users. The Windows Search is
